G7 - Refugees, Migration and Border Closure

with activists from Tunisia and Cote d'Ivoire talk in french and arabic, translation into german (english)

Sat 30th may | 7.30 p.m. | Allerweltshaus | Körnerstraße 77-79 | Köln | (U 3/ U4)

The tragedy in the Mediteranean Sea, the numerous deaths of refugees had put the focus on the international migration politics for a short time. But again the only answer of the many death people is the call for border closure and military action. With their restrictive migration politics the G7 states do not fullfill their obligation in giving entry for people seeking refuge and protection. By looking at the cause of migration the direct link to the G7 politics can be seen, such as "landgrabbing", "militarization" and "free trade markets".

During the talk, members of the initiative "La Terre est pour Tous" - "The Earth is for everybody" from Tunisia, and members of "Voix de migrants" - "Voice of migrants", aswell as the "International Coalition of Sans Papiers and Migrants" (CISPM) will talk about their work and give a transnational perspective.

Afterwards there will be shown a part of the theater "Hurria!" - arabic for "freedom!", from the tunesian artist Riadh Ben Ammar. A theatre about revolution and freedom of movement.

The international activists are touring through Germany and give infos why people are fighting worldwide against the G7 states. With this they want to mobilize to come to the protests against the G7 summit

And they want to invite to a discussion in solidarity and to work on a network south-north and south-south: What are the conditions and similarities of our fights? How can south and north together change the political conditions?
